

FAMILY TOUR GRAFFITI

FAMILY TOUR GRAFFITI

Welcome to Museion – we're glad you're here!

The Graffiti exhibition is on display on the third and fourth floors of the museum! The large, colourful works surround you with colour, movement, and imaginative images! Graffiti is writing or drawings that artists, as well as ordinary people, leave on walls, garage doors, benches, trains... They often do this without permission, and use graffiti as a way to express what they think or feel. Sometimes, they carry an important message about their city. The city and its walls become the pages of a notebook, a large canvas, to express personal thoughts and share them with lots of people.

Wander through the third floor, look around and discover the spray paints: Can you spot letters in the bright and shimmering colours? Or a hidden message? Head to the fourth floor of the museum. Here, an entire city has been recreated, with "garbage bins" and "electric boxes" by the artist Klara Liden, "store shutters" featuring drawings by the artist R.I.P Germain, and... a "real" train – the "New Media Express" by the artist Josephine Pryde: Step in and imagine you're in a real metropolis, traveling from city to city with graffiti messages! Have a great ride!!

Did you know that graffiti started on trains? In the late 1970s, artists began secretly writing on train carriages in New York City, often at night. On the trains, everyone could see their messages, which spread throughout the city!

In your kit, you will find a folded accordion-style sheet with an image of a train. On top of it, there's tracing paper. You'll also find colourful markers and stencils. What message would you like to leave on your train from Museion to take home? Write or draw it on the tracing paper. Please return the markers with the kit to the entrance. You can, of course, take your train with your message home! Perhaps you'll spot some colourful graffiti messages around the city!

Have fun!
Your MUSEION team

Welcome to Museion – we're glad you're here!

The Graffiti exhibition is on display on the third and fourth floors of the museum! The large, colourful works surround you with colour, movement, and imaginative images! Graffiti is writing or drawings that artists, as well as ordinary people, leave on walls, garage doors, benches, trains... They often do this without permission, and use graffiti as a way to express what they think or feel. Sometimes, they carry an important message about their city. The city and its walls become the pages of a notebook, a large canvas, to express personal thoughts and share them with lots of people.

Wander through the third floor, look around and discover the spray paints: Can you spot letters in the bright and shimmering colours? Or a hidden message? Head to the fourth floor of the museum. Here, an entire city has been recreated, with "garbage bins" and "electric boxes" by the artist Klara Liden, "store shutters" featuring drawings by the artist R.I.P Germain, and... a "real" train – the "New Media Express" by the artist Josephine Pryde: Step in and imagine you're in a real metropolis, traveling from city to city with graffiti messages! Have a great ride!!

Did you know that graffiti started on trains? In the late 1970s, artists began secretly writing on train carriages in New York City, often at night. On the trains, everyone could see their messages, which spread throughout the city!

In your kit, you will find a folded accordion-style sheet with an image of a train. On top of it, there's tracing paper. You'll also find colourful markers and stencils. What message would you like to leave on your train from Museion to take home? Write or draw it on the tracing paper. Please return the markers with the kit to the entrance. You can, of course, take your train with your message home! Perhaps you'll spot some colourful graffiti messages around the city!

Have fun!
Your MUSEION team